The app transLoc needs to make its user interface less clustered and have a proper destination feature that will allow students to track what time shuttles show up and what time they are supposed to leave.